How the Murderers of Seljan were Caught Carrying the Corpse-Big Forgery Scheme Discovered at Butte.

Chicago, July 8.-In western desperado style a man supposed to be C. E. Cole, assaulted and attempted to rob D. C. McGloin in his saloon at 64 Adams street, in the heart of the business district of Chicago this evening. After seriously wounding McGloin the thief escaped and made the most remarkable race for liberty ever seen in the streets of Chicago. After firing into a mab that pursued him and wounding three citizens, he was run down and killed by Officer Rosenthal, opposite the entrance of the Auditorium hotel in Congress street. The wounded are: D. C. McGloin, saloon-keeper, three wounds on the head, will recover; H. M. Sternberg, shot in the abdomen; taken to the St. Luke's hospital; will probably die; Samuel Stone, shot in the right leer, will recover.

probably die; Samuel Stone, shot in the right leg; will recover.

McGloin was alone in his saloon when Cole entered and ordered a glass of beer. This was served to him and he then asked the saloon-keeper to get him some meat that he claimed to have left in the loe box of the saloon. McGloin walked to the entrance of the ice hox and Cole depretations. box, and Cole, drawing a revolver, or-dered him to go inside and stay there. McGloin turned and struck the robber in the face nearly knocking him down. The two men then clinched and fought desperately. Cole managed to get one arm free and with his revolver he pounded the saloon-keeper victously, inflicting three wounds on the head.

PURSUIT IN THE STREETS. The robber then broke loose from Mc-Gloin and running to the street en-trance turned west on Adams. Al-though bleeding profusely, McGloin fol lowed and was only a few steps behind the thief, when he turned into O'Brien's saloon at 84 Adams street, and still holding the revolver in his hand, ran out of the rear door on Online, street. out of the rear door on Quincy street. He then turned east and at State street boarded a south-bound cable car. Mc-Gloin was still close upon him, and Cole seeing that he could not shake off his pursuer, ran through the car.

Several citizens had by this time joined in the chase and after running one block to Jackson street Cole fired a shot into the crowd, which failed to hit anyone. The flight and pursuit then turned toward Wabash avenue and south upon that street. Officers Rosenthal and Day at once folined in the chase and as Cole was badly winded by this time they rapidly came up with him. Half way between Van Buren street and Congress Rosenthal was close upon his man and ordered him to surrender. Cole replied with a shot and the bullet tore into the stomach of Sternberg, who was among the leaders of the purwho was among the leaders of the pur-suit. Just before reaching the corner of Congress street, the officer fired at the fugitive, who returned the compli-ment. The bullet of the officer went wild, but that of Cole brought down Stone, another pursuer, with a ball in the leg. Rosenthal fired a second time and this time Cole stargered. He conand this time Cole staggered. He con-tinued to run, however, turned the cor-ner and ran east on Congress until he was directly in front of the entrance of the great Auditorium theatre where he fell. He died within two minutes with-out saying a word. The officer's bullet had passed through the left kidney and into the lung. Nothing is known of the man in Chicago. The only manner in which his name could be determined was by the laundry mark on his cloth-ing which read: "C. E. Cole." He was of slender build, about five feet eight inches tall, and had a dark moustache. Inside the collar of Cole's coat was a tailor's tag bearing the name of G. Bernheimer & Co., Kansas City, Mo. From this the police are inclined to think the man came from that city.

Local assembly No. 3,839 Knights of Labor filed a communication to the mayor and city council demanding nu-nicipal ownership of the gas works to-day, and T. W. Gilruth, recording sec-retary of the assembly created a lively scene in the city clerk's office by ac-cusing certain councilmen of unfairly treating the people.

When Gilruth entered the city clerk's effice he threw the document on the desk with a rap of his knuckles and said to Councilmen Brown and Kid-well, who were standing near:

We mean business, gentlemen. You must not exploit the rights of the peo-ple in the manner customary with the council for some time past."

The councilmen made a sharp retort,

SAW SELJAN PUT AWAY.

Omaha, July 8—The police ascertaind today the manner in which the body of John Seljan was taken to the river from the boarding house in which he was murdered. Thomas Kinney, a Union Pacific engineer, identified three of the prisoners as the men whom he observed at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of the murder going toward the river with a fruit vender's cart on which they were carrying some heavy SAW SELJAN PUT AWAY.

river with a fruit vender's cart on which they were carrying some heavy object wrapped in a heavy blanket. Noting the shape of their bundle, Engineer Kinney at the time was impressed with its resemblance to a human body. The men, too, acted strangely. Two of them walked ahead and seemed to be on the outlook, as though to give warning, should they happen upon any belated pedestrians. The engineer was on his locomotive, which stood on the South Thirteenth street viaduct at the time when the three passed under.

AFTER THE AWFUL HEAT.

El Reno, O. T., July 8.—A terrific storm struck this city this afternoon about 5 o'clock. Many small frame structures were overturned and great damage was done to some of the best buildings in the city. The Kerfoot hotel was perforated with flying gravel stones that broke nearly all the windows out of the west side. Lee's big livery barn was badly wrecked and the African M. E. church destroyed. The roof of the masonic building was crush ed by falling chimneys. The First National banks large plate glass front was blown in.

At the fair grounds everything was swept away. George Baker, who owns a string of trotters, was seriously in-jured. Brown Bonnie and Rustler, two valuable trotting horses owned by M. T. Stanley were so badly hurt that they will have to be killed. For three days past the heat has been awful. The thermometer has not been below 98 at midnight, and has reached as high as 109. During the storm this afternon it was as dark as midnight. GUTHRIE AND CHICKASHA.

Guthrie, O. T., July 8.—A terrific wind and hail storm prevailed here last night. Hail as large as hen's eggs fell doing an immense amount of damage to crops and breaking hundreds of windows. In one township there was water spounts and a number of bridges were washed out and other damage done.

Fort Worth, Texas, July 8.-A report was received here today giving meagre details of a cyclone which struck Chicasha, I, T., last night about 9 o'clock Several buildings were blown down, but nobody was killed. The storm passed Hennessy, doing much damage. FOUR INCHES OF WATER.

Topeka, Kan., July 8.—Last evening the little town of Canton was struck by a tornado and great damage was done. Nearly every house in the town was more or less damaged. Many houses and barns were entirely demolished and a score of persons are reported injured. James Snyder and two others were buried beneath the ruins of a barn. Snyder had one arm broken and received many other injuries from which he it not expected to recover. The high school building was badly damaged and a number of persons were injured by falling timbers and debris. A large number of farm houses lying in the path of the storm are known to have been demolished, but up to a late hour last night no deaths had been reported.

STIRS UP CHICAGO.

Chicago, July &—This city was visited last evening by one of the most furious wind and rain storms ever known in this vicinity for years. The day had been intensely hot and there there were many people out on the lake in sailboats and as the storm came suddenly it was at first thought that many lives had been lost but when the round up was completed, it was found that everybody had turned up safely. Incalculable damage was done all over the city, signs and awnings being blown away, shade trees uprooted, windows smashed, etc. The big store of the Rothschilds, occupying nearly a whole block on State street, was badly damaged, the entire front of plate glass windows being blown in and the snow cases destroyed, and many goods renederd worthless.

In Destructiveness to Property it Equals a Small Cyclone, Neodesha, Kan., July 8.—(Special.)— Phis place was visited yesterday by the worst windstorm it ever experienthe worst windstorm it ever experienced. Rain began falling at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, shortly after which the wind rose to a gale, and continued to blow at that rate for about thirty minutes, the result being very destructive to weaker buildings and corn crop. The Commercial hotel, owned by W. T. Wetmore of Wichita, was partially unroofed, and the interior flooded with water. The school building of eight rooms, suffered the loss of that portion of its roof belonging to the south wing, and also a portion of the wall, the whole falling inphotograph gallery, a small frame structure, was moved several feet from its foundation. A windmill wheel twenty-five feet in diameter, which furnished motive power to Fonda's feed mill, was blown down, together with the heavy machinery to which it was attached, and completely demolwas attached, and completely demol-ished. So far as heard from sixteen oil derricks are down, one of which, the Stillwell, is reported to have fallen on the tank near it, and caused the loss of 150 barrels of oil. Trees, some of which are twelve inches in diameter, are down in all parts of town, while the business portion suffered the de-struction of awareness and plate class struction of awnings and plate glass.

Reports coming from the country are to the effect that corn is greatly damaged, being laid flat to the ground. Board fences are pretty generally down, and in one instances, a hedge fence fifteen feet in height, was reported to be uprooted for a considerable distance owing to its bushy growth.

Washington, July 8 .- Ex-Secretary Foster arrived in this city yesterday on his return from his peace mission to the Orient, where he has been concerned in the negotiations of peace between China and Japan.

In answer to inquiries Mr. Foster made a statement in which he said that there was no good reason to expect permanent peace between Japan and China as the result of the treaty of Shimoneseki. The terms demanded by Japan may, he said, under the circum stances, be regarded as reasonable, especially in view of the retrocession o Loa Tun peninsula. The treaty has been observed and carried out by China with scrupulous good faith. He conduct in this respect has created a very favorable impression in Japan.

The loan just concluded through Rus sian influence will enable China to pay the first two installments of the indemnity. These two installments cover half the indemnity, and the balance, extending over six years, will be a comparatively easy burden for the Chinese government, if any skill is shown in the management of the imperial revenues. The country has great resources and has never yet failed in its financial engagements. Hence the peace concluded at Shimoneseki is not likely to be broken on account of the shortcomlings of China. If a rupture occurrs it is more likely to be brought about by the intermeddling of the European powers. The intervention of Russia on account of the terms of peace was not unexpected and is not unnatural in view of her predominating interest in the orient, especially on the north Pacific coast of Asia.

DAILY WEATHER FORECAST.

The resumption of the old plan of forwarding daily weather messages, except on Sunday, to all forecast display stations receiving such information by government telegraphic service, was decided by the agricultural department today. It is the first important scheme for improving the forecast service to be put into operation by Chief Moore of the weather bureau. The present system of sending these messages only when decided changes in weather conditions are expected, was found objectionable as tending toward indifference and neglect and many urgent requests for a change were filed. The resumption of the plan approved this afternoon by Acting Secretary Dahney has been under advisement for some time, but was delayed longer owing to ex-Chief Harrington's opposition. The dropping of the daily service has resulted in several of the oldest and best qualified observers and display men leaving the eral of the oldest and best qualified ob-servers and display men leaving the service owing to dissatisfaction with irregular forecast reports.

SMUGGLED CHINAMEN.

The treasury officials have received no information in confirmation of the report from Montreal that United States customs officials there had discovered that large numbers of Chinamen were being smuggled into the United States from Canada, nor have the official any information of their having been twelve or any number of officers sent to Montreal on this mission as stated. While it is probably true that an occasional Chinaman succeeds in getting across the lines, it is not believed that 300 or any considerable number have been smuggled into this country.

ARMENIANS BETRAVED TO TURKS

Advance Party of the Revolutionists are Turned Over to Their Enemies. Advance Party of the Revolutionists are Turned Over to Their Enemies.

London, July 8.—A press correspondent writing from Van, Armenia, under date of May 30, says: The advance guard of the revolutionary party, which, as announced a week ago, was betrayed to the Turkish government by the Yezides of Tehiboukia, on the night of Sunday, May 19, is not in prison in the city of Van. Only one member of the party escaped, and he, at the earliest possible moment, put himself in communication with the correspondent of the press. The latter is now in possession of complete information with respect to the prisoners, but he is not disposed to furnish it to the Turkish government so long as there remains the slightest chance that these men may escape death. He holds, for the present, at least, a considerable part of the facts concerning them.

The men had been hidden in the mountains waiting for reinforcements, making plans for carrying on their work and the weather having turned cold and wet, they went to the house of Hahto, head man of Tchboulka, to warm themselves and dry their clothing. Hahto was supposed to be friendly to the Armenians cause, as he was not a Turk, and great numbers of his countrymen had been massacreed by the Turkish government in the Mosul district in 1852. Upon arriving at Hahto's house the men stacked arms in the corner and gathered about the fire.

pain of instant death. Taken by surprise the revolutionists made no resistence. Of the fourteen members of the party only one escaped. Each man had a rifle and six of the party had revolvers.

The prisoners were taken to Sevi the next day by the soldiers and were then marched sixty miles to Van, where they arrived Wednesday evening. Their arrival was watched by a large number of Turks and Armenians. On the way there they were beaten by gun butts and prodded with bayonets and otherwise maitreaged. As the English member of the party was unable to walk the whole distance he was given a horse to ride the last twenty miles. The Englishman told the officials out in the name of Paul Quesnel. He was, he said, on his way to the Moush and Sassoun region to investigate the Armenian situation. His thirteen companions were in his pay as guards against attacks by Kurds.

The other prisoners told the same story. All were dressed as Kurds, including Willhams. At first Williams denied that he could speak Armenian, but subsequently, under pressure of torture, he admitted that he could. After a week of experimenting with various kinds of persuasions known to the Turkish jailers, the governor of Van said that Williams had confessed evrything. Nobody belives this. Up to May 30 Williams had been unable to see the British vice consul at Van, although Mr. Hailword went so far as to ask the governor unofficially to let him see Williams, but the request was refused. All of the prisoners have been bottured during the week.

The situation in Armenia grows worse daily. The press is constantly in receipt of stories of robbery, outrages and murder. The condition of the Armenians have been worse during the past six months than ever before. Even in the city of Van soldlers have been pliaced on guard at the Armenian churches, the officials fearing an uprising.

No, A GIRL; NOT A BOY.

Third Baby is Here to President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

Buzzard's Bay, July &—Just before 5 o'clock tought the news reached the village that a girl baby had been born at Gray Gables. This report was soon verified by Dr. Bryant, who announced that the happy event occurred at 430 p. m., and that both mother and the little one were doing as well as could be expected.

This is the third child to be born into the president's family and all are girls. Ruth is 4-years-old and Esther 2 Only a passing giance could be obtained from the president this afternoon, but that was sufficient to note the expression of ministration on the face of the chief executive, aithough it, was an open secret that a baby boy would not have been unwelcome Mrs. Cleveland's mother, Mrs. Perrine, is expected to arrive from Buffalo this week.
